

“From almost the moment she arrived from India, she chose and was welcomed to and included in the Black community,” Senator Harris wrote of her mother in her 19 memoir, “The Truths We Hold.” “It was the foundation of her new American life.”

“My mother understood very well that she was raising two Black daughters,” she wrote. “She knew that her adopted homeland was a very and much Black girls, and she was determined to make sure we would grow into confident, proud Black women.”

Both her parents included the fundamental rights, protests, and solutions

“Sh chos to s t o t on h r own to go to How rd, w nting to b clos r to its tr ditions in th l w nd b com l wy r, lik J stic Th rgood rsh ll” –
How rd l m whom S n tor H rris h s c ll d on of th ins ir tions of h r yo th.
“And sh didn’t st tt nd How rd, sh b c m ry m ch rt of its soci l n tworks,” Dr. Pind rh gh s ddsc Ho

